  Thursday se'nnight an inquest was taken at Hacheston, near Wickham Market, by Rich. Woods, gent. On the body of Butcher Dallinger, servant to Mr. Jasper Gooding, of Framlingham, who was driving a double cart and two horses loaded with goods from Woodbridge to Framlingham, and (supposing him to be asleep) the cart by accident overset, and the said Butcher Dallinger fell from the cart, and a large cask of spirits fell upon the back part of his head and shoulders, and fractured his skull, so he immediately died.

Death of Lilian Ada Dallinger, born 1887 August 23, registered in Chichester.

1 There is a memorial in section H of the Ipswich Old Municipal Cemetery giving the following information – William Dallinger died in Ipswich in 1855, aged 82. His sister Sarah (died 1860 aged 68) had married William Block. Sarah Dallinger died in 1886 aged 74 – this confirms dates for William’s daughter.

2 Contemporary sources at the time of his death variously give his age as 67 or 68. The Civil Registration Index and various early census returns confirm that he was actually born in 1839. His birthday is invariably given as July 5.

3 The 1871 census shows Mary Hawken as a visitor to Benjamin (68) and Jane Gough, landowner and farmer at Hernhill, Kent.
William Edward Hawken was a Jeweller and latterly photographer of Lostwithiel, Cornwall. The couple can be found until 1901 in Lostwithiel, in later years living with nephew Percy Hawken (c1885, Lostwithiel). William is widowed by 1911. There is a Wesleyan minister, Rev. William Hawken with links to the Dallinger family but this is still obscure.
