MR. R. C. H. BARNARD Death In Cheltenham Of Indian Railway Engineer The "Chronicle" regrets to announce the death of Mr. Robert Cary Henslow Barnard, which took place at his home, Rosslyn, Moorend Grove, Cheltenham, on Saturday, in his 75th year. Mr. Barnard was the eldest son of the late Major R. C. Barnard, of Bartlow, Leckhampton Hill. He was articled to the late Mr. Shelford, the railway engineer, in Westminster, and during the time he was pupil was chiefly employed on the Hull and Barnsley Railway. Soon after completing his articles Mr. Barnard went direct to India to take up the post of assistant engineer of the Great Indian Peninsular Railway. Afterward became Deputy Chief and hold this position when he retired shortly after the war. During his career in India he was a J.P. for Bombay and also Lieutenant- Colonel of the Ist G. I.P. Volunteers, being rewarded with the V.D. for long service. He was one of the officers in the Indian contingent at the Coronation of King George V., and he commanded the guard of honour when Lord Roberts came to Cheltenham to open the new Drill Hall. On his retirement he came to Cheltenham, first to Bartlow, and then moving to Rosslyn. Mr. Barnard was a prominent Freemason. He was Worshipful Master of the Foundation Lodge, No. 82, and afterwards received provincial honours as Past Provincial Grand Deacon. He was acting as Provincial Steward for this year, and had just completed the raising of a considerable sum for the Girls' School Festival. In India he was a Mark Mason and a founder and past W.M. of the lodge Star of Gwalior. He was a prominent members of the Friends in Council, a literary society founded by his father in 1868. Until last year he was chairman of the Leckhampton Parish Council and the Parish Meeting, retiring from those offices owing to ill-health. For many years he was a member of the Cheltenham Rotary Club. Mr. Barnard is survived by his wife, his son, Capt. T. Barnard (late the Gloucestershire Regiment), and his daughter, Mrs. Hooton, wife of Major Hooton (late the Green Howards). There are three brothers and two sisters, viz., Mrs.[sic] A. S. Barnard, now living in Cirencester, Mr. A. H. Barnard, now in Liverpool, and Mr. L. W. Barnard, architect, of Cheltenham, and Miss H. C. Barnard, of Cheltenham, and Miss C. S. Barnard, of Church Stretton.
